IN DAYS OF GOLD

CHARLES WILSON OF BUTTE COUNTY TELLS OF EARLY FIGHTING DAYS

Charles Wilson, a well-known mining man from Big Bar, Butte County, California, where he has been mining for 40 years, is a visitor in this city at present. He is full of interesting reminiscences of the days of gold and the early days of fighting with the Indians. Mr. Wilson came from the East to San Francisco, by way of the Isthmus of Panama, in the days when the journey was made across the old Isthmus trail, partly by boat and partly by mule-back. Mr. Wilson is the father of Mrs. W. R. Phelon of 428 S. Maryland.

"In those days," said Mr. Wilson, "San Francisco was just beginning to show signs of the greatness to which it has since attained. It was an interesting city and had suffered from extensive fires which had compelled better building. In those early days there was much trouble with the Snake and Shoshone Indians. I was one of the hotblooded youth of the State who joined the California militia in 1861. There was no need for attempting to send us to the Civil war. We had war right at our own doors.

"I saw service in Utah where there was trouble with the Mormons and a pretty difficult time we used to have with them. In cases where the followers of Joe Smith were recalcitrant or obstreperous the soldiers made short work of them. Found guilty of breach of the law the Mormons would be punished by being confined for a certain number of hours in a kind of wooden cage 4 feet by 4 feet. As they could neither stand up nor lie down in this cell you can imagine that they were ready to promise obedience.

"At other times some of the worst cases of Morman criminals would be confined in a box six feet high, but so narrow that they could only be squeezed into. In this cramped condition cold water would be dashed on them. There was not much pity for malefactors in those days. I have seen from ten to twelve Mormons set up to stand for four hours on the end of pork barrels. You can imagine how drastic a punishment that was. They could not move. The sentries were there to see that they kept erect.

"The California militia did a great deal of service in Utah and in Nevada. I well remember the biggest fight we had in those days. That was the Battle of Bear River. The Indians had a nasty habit of waylaying the miners as they went into or came back from the mines in North Dakota. Many miners had been killed when the State of California determined to put an end to the practice by striking terror once for all into the hearts of the Indians. These Indians were Snakes and Shoshones. It was determined to strike at their camp on the Big Bear river. That was in the dead of winter and when we had marched in search of the camp over the hills many of our men suffered severely from frost bite.

"The troops who took part in the fight were one company of the Third California Infantry and four troops of the Second Cavalry. We were commanded by Colonel P. Edward Connor. It was determined to send the military in to support Marshal Gibbs in his attempt to serve summons on three of the Indian chiefs, Sand Pitch, Sag Witch and Bear Hunter, who were known to have murdered miners. Naturally Sag Witch and the others did not wish to be summoned to court. They preferred to fight. There were about 300 of them encamped in a strongly fortified camp on the slopes above the Big Bear river. The Indians were great fighters; they greeted our advance with a volley of rifle fire that brought down a number of our men. We then charged their camp and they were compelled to retire up the mountainside, and to take shelter among the brush. They fought bravely but at last were completely wiped out by our men.

"Three hundred Indians fell in this battle. We lost 125 killed and wounded. The squaws and children to the number of 120 were saved. Much of the food in the Indian camp was destroyed, only enough for the survivors being left. That was the last big battle in that section between the whites and the Indians. After that the miners had peace.

"When the country was somewhat settled I took up the business of mining and have all along been fairly successful. It is likely that I will tell the readers of the Glendale News something about the placer mining on the Feather River one of these days. It is an interesting story."

NOTES OF THE DAY

VOLUNTEERS DRILL—DEATH OF MR. CUNNINGHAM—G. A. R. PICNIC

Glendale volunteers assembled at the fire house Friday night, about 7:40 o'clock, and proceeded to Tropico school grounds, in autos thoughtfully provided for them by some of the members of the company. Captain Johnson was in charge. There was a good contingent of the Tropico boys at hand on the drill ground and squad drill was entered into with enthusiasm. Captain Johnson has appointed Alfred Knight, 317 E. Second street, and H. A. McElroy, 712 Adams street, as sergeants. Under the supervision of the officers the boys made excellent progress in squad drill and company drill was afterward entered on. The company meets next week, as usual, at the drill hall, First and Glendale, at 8 p. m.

DEATH OF CHARLES M. CUNNINGHAM

Charles M. Cunningham died at his residence, 1440 W. Third street, Friday, July 28. Mr. Cunningham was 69 years of age. He came to California three years ago from Grove City, Pa. He was a rancher. Mr. Cunningham had been in bad health for a year previous to his death. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary B. Cunningham, and his only daughter Maud. Mr. Cunningham was a member of the First Congregational church, among the members of which he had many friends. The funeral services will take place Monday, July 31, at 10 a. m., in the Jewel City Undertaking parlors. The Rev. E. H. Willisford will officiate. Cremation will be at Pasadena.

LADIES' AID MEETS

The Casa Verdugo Methodist-Episcopal Ladies' Aid met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. E. Rockhold, 1430 Burchett street. There was the usual routine business. Jones gave several readings and her daughter Martha Jones sang "Sunshine." Miss N. Brown and Miss Virginia Shotwell played several striking piano selections. Miss Lois Murphy of Casa Verdugo gave some beautiful violin solos. Refreshments were served and a pleasant time enjoyed.

Doris Packer recited an interesting selection. Then followed an hour of sewing. During the work hour "The Secret Garden" was read. Afterward the girls enjoyed games in the schoolhouse court. Next meeting will be specially for crocheting, but girls having other sewing that they want to do or finish may bring that kind of work. Girls of any age are welcome. The next meeting will be held Thursday, Aug. 3.

BRITISH REPULSE TEUTON COUNTER ATTACKS

GERMAN ATTEMPT TO RETAKE DELVILLE WOOD IS THROWN BACK WITH GREAT LOSS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, July 29—Delville wood, the position that has cost so many lives on both sides, was again the object of attack, this morning. The Germans advanced shortly after midnight and threw a large body of troops against the British force that holds the ground. The Germans were repulsed and broken up by the powerful British artillery fire. Undaunted they prepared another offensive and attacked again with similar result. The wood is piled high with corpses and the British are hard at work consolidating the ground they have gained. Further progress was made by the British later on, General Haig reports.

BREAK INTO NORTHEASTERN GALICIA

SLAVS CAPTURE BRODY, LARGEST GALICIAN CITY AND ADVANCE ALONG THE WHOLE FRONT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PETROGRAD, July 29.—There is great rejoicing here over the capture of Brody, the largest city in northeastern Galicia. Brody was captured, September 1, 1915 in Gen. Mackensen's great drive, and its recapture is a sign of how little the Germans are able to withstand the Russian advance which is now going on along the whole line. The Russians are now preparing to advance on Lemberg in two lines and along two railroads.

GERMANS ACKNOWLEDGE RUSSIAN SUCCESS

BERLIN DISPATCHES STATE THAT SLAVS HAVE PENETRATED POSITIONS ON STOKHOB RIVER

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

BERLIN, July 29.—The Russians have succeeded in penetrating the German lines in the Trysten region, according to official admissions here today. This has forced the German line back across the Stokhob river. The falling back is said to have been necessary for the defense of the Kovel sector. The Russians are massing large numbers of troops in that direction and the fighting is still proceeding.

CAPTURED APPAM RESTORED TO BRITISH

BRITISH VESSEL TAKEN BY GERMAN RAIDERS MUST BE RESTORED TO FORMER OWNERS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

NORFOLK, July 29.—Federal Judge Waddell handed down today his decision in the famous Appam case, which has been before the court for several months. He has decided that the British liner must be restored to its former owners. The Appam was captured, by a ruse, by the crew of the German raider Moewe, and brought to the United States, the Germans having no other port to which they could bring it. The decision is a great blow to the German prize crew, which has been waiting here in expectation of getting possession of the vessel and its valuable cargo.

RED CARS WILL RUN TO EAST BROADWAY STATION BEGINNING AUG. 1

Work on the Broadway extension of the Pacific Electric has been progressing rapidly and officials of the road announce that the cars will begin running as far as the East Broadway station on August 1. It is understood that there will be the same service as at present only the cars will continue to East Broadway instead of stopping at Glendale avenue. Residents of the east part of the city will greatly appreciate this convenience.

VERDUGO CANYON WATER COMPANY

The Verdugo Canyon Water company held its regular meeting Friday in the city hall. Arthur Campbell presided and there were present J. C. Sherer, H. B. Lynch, G. B. Woodberry, David Black, Daniel Fuller, and F. H. Olmsted. Dwight Griswold, of Tropico, sent in his resignation from the directorate and T. W. Watson was elected in his place. The usual routine business was transacted.

TO EXCAVATE CHURCH SITE

The building committee of the First Methodist Episcopal church met in the church parlor Friday evening and opened the bids for the excavation of the foundation for the new church, which is to be built at the corner of Third and Kenwood. Committee members are: T. W. Watson, chairman; A. W. Tower, L. E. Brockman, George U. Moyse, J. N. Marsh, C. W. Spickerman, C. W. Ingledue. There were five bids and the work was awarded to Charles W. Kent & Son, S. Brand boulecard.

OLDEST BOY SCOUT

At the regular meeting of Troop 2, Glendale Boy Scouts, held Friday evening at their headquarters in the Congregational church, they had as their honored guest one of the oldest Scouts in California, Mr. H. Ogden, of 1322 Hawthorne street.

Mr. Ogden is one of the few remaining pioneers who made the journey across the plains long before the advent of the railroad. At Friday night's meeting Mr. Ogden held the undivided attention of Troop 2 for one hour, relating to them his experiences while crossing the country from Illinois to the Pacific coast with a train of thirty wagons, drawn by oxen, in 1852.

Before beginning the account of the trip he gave the boys some good advice in regard to being temperate in all things, especially in the use of liquor and tobacco.

Mr. Ogden is 86 years and that fact and his enpoyment of good health he attributes to a life long abstinence from intoxicating liquor and tobacco.

At the close of Mr. Ogden's talk the boys by unanimous vote elected him an honorary member of Troop 2 and they challenge all troops in California to produce as young an old scout as Scout H. Ogden.

SLUMBER PARTY

Miss Carol Willisford entertained at the home of her parents, the Rev. E. H. Willisford and Mrs. Willisford, a jolly party of her girl friends, Friday evening. The young ladies arrived in the afternoon and enjoyed a pleasant dinner. The entertainment was in the form of a "slumber" party and most of the young ladies spent the night at the Willisford residence. Those present were: Ruby Farnsworth, Catherine Coates, Aldine Norton, Katheryne Green, Lillian Jennings, Marian Lane and Elsie Tyler.

MUSICAL TREAT

Much interest is being displayed by the people of the San Fernando valley in the concert to be given by Le Mare, the noted concert organist and composer, at the Van Nuys High School, Monday evening, July 31. Mr. Le Mare gave many concerts in San Francisco at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. Since the engagement at Van Nuys is the noted artist's only appearance in this vicinity, many of those who appreciate the best in music are planning to attend.

The concert is under the auspices of the Woman's club of Van Nuys and the High School. Prominent club women of the valley have been asked to act as patronesses for the affair. A special car will leave from the Hill Street station in Los Angeles at 7:15 p. m.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Sunday; cloudy along the coast; westerly winds.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP

PUBLIC SERVICE MANAGER LYNCH MAKES GOOD SHOWING IN REPORT

The City of Glendale owns its water and light systems throughout the corporate limits, and in the territory to the North and West.

The water system consists of sixty-two miles of pipe line covering all of Glendale except the Verdugo canyon and the mountains. In addition, the city owns over thirty per cent of the flow of Verdugo canyon. There are four reservoirs and three pumping plants supplying the system.

The electric light system consists of over fifty miles of pole line, covering almost completely the habitable area of the city. There is also an underground conduit system about one mile long through the business portion consisting mostly of nine ducts of fibre conduit. The department also owns a brick substation and warehouse and its office which is in a brick extension to the city hall.

The street lighting system consists of two hundred and sixty-two five-light ornamental standards, one hundred and seven single-light ornamental standards, two hundred and eleven single-light posts, covering a distance of seventeen miles, all lighted from underground cables, and three hundred and thirty-eight gooseneck lamps supplied from overhead wires.

During the year ending June 30, 1916, there has been a great deal of work done toward the betterment and extension of the systems. Five miles of cast iron pipe have been laid in various parts of the city, of which one and one-half miles have been laid in advance of street paving, and the rest as an addition to the system. By far the most important of the lines laid, both in cost and in effect upon the service has been the twenty-inch cast iron pipe laid on Doran street from Glendale avenue to Central avenue, a distance of 4400 feet. This pipe, put into service the latter part of June, has completely relieved the low pressures during warm days in the Northwestern portion of the city. This lack of pressure was caused almost wholly by the inability of the two six-inch pipes on First street to carry sufficient water during warm evenings to supply the needs of this section. As the new pipe will carry more than ten times as much water as the two pipes on First street, no further difficulty will be occasioned from that reason. The cost of this pipe has been met almost wholly from the operating revenues of the department. Other pipes have been laid with a view of completing an ultimate network of large mains sufficient to serve the greatest demand that will come upon the territory. These mains are being laid as occasion demands. All cast iron pipe is laid up with cement instead of lead at a very great saving, the cement being not only less expensive but better for this purpose. All of this work is of the most permanent nature and laid with a view to the fact that it must serve its purposes adequately for many years to come. All pipe is laid three feet deep to the top of the pipe and valves are placed at intervals sufficiently frequent to permit closing down a small section if necessary without impairing service on other streets.

Sixty-two standard fire hydrants have been set during the year. These are practically all double nozzle hydrants, set on pipe six inches or larger. Where new pipe is laid hydrants are placed on each corner. When complete the network of pipes six inches and larger will be so arranged that no fire hydrants will be on pipe smaller than this.

At the General Election in April a section including Remington street and Ruth avenue was annexed to the city. This section greatly needed fire protection and a direct water main. A six-inch cast iron line has been run along Dryden and Remington streets, with a four-inch line on Stocker street. The department was prepared to give service in this section July 1, 1916. Application has been made to the Railroad Commission for permission to purchase the portion of the distributing system of the North Glendale Distributing company supplying this district at the cost of the equipment with allowance for depreciation. This section was already furnished with domestic lights and street lights by the city, and no extension of the electric system has been necessitated by the annexation.

During the year 128 water services and 207 electric light connections have been installed. There are now about 3100 electric meters connected to the lines of which 2780 are

EFFECT OF WAR IN RUSSIA

Russia is better off now than she was before the war. Two years of fighting have done the country good. The Russians have fought bravely and paid a high price in life and money. But the country is learning much. It is learning to stand alone and to walk alone. She is awakened industrially and economically and is alert to the changes that are about to come in Europe.

Russia has two hundred million people. Of these one hundred and sixty millions are peasants. These agricultural workers and industrial workers are better off now than they have ever been. They live off their farms and are not affected by the high prices. Theirs is a very simple life. They have money now. Prior to the war 800,000,000 rubles ($400,000,000) left the villages and country to pay for liquor. This vast sum now remains in the country.

Besides the government is paying 500,000,000 rubles annually to the widows and families of soldiers. There is therefore no wonder that now the country is rich. In many cases men who formerly could not get employment on account of their drinking habits are constantly employed because when sober as they are now normally they are excellent workers. The village drunkard is now a thing of the past. The wife-beater has vanished away. The ne'er-do-well has been weeded out. The peasants now wear good clothes and are clean. On Sundays they are at church with their wives. The abolition of vodka has worked a social and economical revolution in Russia.

What is most feared by the upper classes is that now that the people are no longer muddled with strong drink that they will exercise their clear-thinking brains and bring about a revolution in which the landowning class and the nobility and even the czar and the church may go down.

At the outset of the war Russia's crops were threatened. The country was absolutely dependent on the crops and if they had failed her she would have been in a parlous state. The union of local, or county councils, all over the empire got busy, however, and joined hands with the military and the danger was easily averted. Squads of laborers were told off to get in the produce. No corner of the country was too obscure to escape notice. The crops were saved to the last grain and all in a marvelously quick time. The lesson of common endeavor has not been lost on the Russian peasant.

This was the work of the Pan-Russian Zemstvo union, a national organization born of the war. This great group of plain people has been at work to support the army and nation, taking care of interior labor problems as they concerned the rural districts, helping to distribute and look after the refugees and aiding in supplying the army at the front.

In similar way the cities have been organized. The small shops and factories have been brought together under the War Industry committee. The government deals directly with the great industries of the country. All these units are joined in one great whole supplying the army with what it needs. Shells, hand-grenades, trench mortars and all sorts of fighting machines are turned out in vast lots.

Russia has profited by the war, even with the losses she has endured. Every blow has been a stimulation of her national life. She has been lifted ahead 100 years and when the war is over she will be much to the good. The reforms that the war has introduced are worth anything that Russia has lost up to this point.

OFFUTT'S DODGE BROS. CAR

A. P. Offut of 1102½ West Broadway some time ago engaged in the auto service business. He was very much pleased with his patronage and being desirous of giving most excellent service, about a week ago he purchased a new Dodge Bros. touring car. Those who are familiar with the Didge car know that it is one of the easiest riding and quietest running cars now in operation. Mr. Offut has had three or four year's experience as a driver of automobiles, is familiar with the beautiful drives in Los Angeles county and can be depended upon as being a trustworthy guide by parties who wish to see the beauties of Southern California. While Mr. Offut is doing some local work with his car his preference is to make extended trips covering a period of an hour of more. Parties wishing to get in communication with Mr. Offut can do so by calling Sunset Glendale 1488.

SOMETHING TO PLEASE

I saw the sea, to be great and calm; and the earth, in that little corner, was all alive and friendly to me. So wherever a man is, he will find something to please and pacify him: in the town he will meet pleasant faces of men and women, and see beautiful flowers at a window, or hear a cage-bird singing at the corner of the gloomiest street; and for the country, there is no country without some amenity—let him only look for it with the right spirit, and he will surely find it.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

TRIBUTE

Thou hast not basely gathered thrift with fawning
Nor won a laurel that thou hast not worn;
But in thy zenith hour as in thy dawning,
The good thy nature willed thy hand has done.

. . . . . .

No stain is on thy banner; grandly streaming,
Its diamond whiteness leads the tuneful host,
Forever in the front of honor beaming,
And they that know thee best must love thee most.

—William Winter.

It was a few days prior to the opening of the Republican convention in Chicago. "Where is the bar?" asked a newcomer hurriedly, as he registered at a hotel. "Just around to the left, sir." "Where is the bar?" asked another at the same place a moment later. "Just around to the left, sir." "Where is the ba——" "Just around to the left, sir. By Jove," the clerk continued, "the delegates are beginning to come in."

Jones, beautifully illuminated, wigwagged his way up the street wherein he lived, with a dignified yet hostile glare in his eyes. As he approached his home he braced himself and his gait was becoming noticeably steadier, when all of a sudden he plunged houseward and fell, striking his nose against a barber's pole. As they raised him off the ground he managed to articulate: "Whazzat woman with striped stockin's got against me."

Walter L. Ball of Muncie, Indiana, former state senator and recently the Republican candidate for the Eighth congressional nomination, has a farmer client he will pit against the world for fewness of words. Seeing Farmer Jones in the street the other day and knowing that Mrs. Jones had been ill, Mr. Ball inquired of the husband: "Well, Jim, how's the wife today—any better?" "Nope!" "Any worse?" "Nope!" "Just about the same, eh?" "Nope!" "Well, how is she, then?" "Dead."

Every seat in the trolley was occupied, when a group of women got in. Going through the car to collect fares, the conductor noticed a man whom he thought was asleep. "Wake up!" shouted the conductor. "I wasn't asleep," said the passenger. "Not asleep," snapped the conductor. "Then what did you have your eyes closed for?" "It was because of the crowded condition of the car," explained the passenger. "I hate to see women standing."

in the city. As there are approximately 8200 people in Glendale the system has 34 meters connected for every 100 of population, a percentage unapproached so far as I am aware. Practically every house within the limits is connected to the lines.

During the year the department purchased 1,459,318 kilowatt hours of electricity, an increase of 17 per cent in the amount used on the system.

The department now has an operating income in excess of $100,000.00 per annum.

The cluster lights on Brand boulevard have been extended through the city from Tropico to Casa Verdugo. These standards occasion more favorable comment from outside than any other single feature in the city.

On Broadway the Pacific Electric Railway is extending its interurban line from Glendale avenue to a point past Adams street. The overhead trolley system for this stretch of line is being build by the company in conformity with the system first adopted by this department in 1912. The result is that from Brand boulevard to Adams street, a distance of almost a mile, there are only three poles on Broadway, although it is served by the street railway and by the electric light and two telephone systems.

During the year the pumping plant site on San Fernando road was annexed to the city. This site already contained one well five hundred feet deep which will yield one thousand gallons of water per minute. The city has drilled two sixteen-inch wells five hundred feet deep on this site, each yielding over two thousand gallons per minute.

The gravity water owned by the city in the Verdugo canyon easily supplies the wants of the city during most of the year, but it is necessary to have ample pumping capacity for extra warm weather or for unusually dry years. It is also necessary to make such provision for the future as will permit unlimited expansion of the city without fear of outgrowing the water supply. The gravity water in the canyon in addition to the water from the pumping plant assures that no doubt will ever arise from this cause. The quantity of water available also permits the department to accomplish one of its most useful aims,—to so reduce the cost of water used for irrigating as to permit its use to the fullest extent for irrigation purposes. I know of no greater service that can be performed by this department than to assist and encourage the planting of vacant land within the city, both from the standpoint of beautification of the city and of profit to the property owners.

To accomplish these things in such a manner as to be of the greatest benefit to the city, it will be necessary to place upon the pumping plant site equipment sufficient to elevate the full amount of water that the present wells will supply to the level of the reservoirs of the city. This will require the extension of the twenty-inch line on Doran street to the pumping plant and the installation of two electrically driven turbine units at the plant, one unit to be placed with the first installation and the other unit whenever the use of water requires it. The first of these units should be placed so as to be in service before the summer of 1917. The motor driven turbine is the cheapest and best installation for this purpose that can be installed.

In addition to the pumping plant it is desired to build a distributing reservoir at the 720 foot elevation to replace the four now in service. This reservoir should be of 7,500,000 gallons capacity, roofed and concrete lined, with proper provisions for cleaning without disturbance to the distribution systems, and should be provided with proper settling basins. A reservoir of this size at the 720 foot elevation will provide greater storage than is furnished by the present reservoirs, and will deliver the water to consumers at a higher pressure. The present reservoirs are placed at from 651 to 682 foot elevations. At a somewhat later time it will be necessary to build a reservoir at about the 900 foot level for the purpose of supplying those consumers who cannot be given good service from the 720 foot level. The need of this has been somewhat postponed by the installation this spring of a small pump and tank to furnish water to the Kalem Picture company and others who could not be reached from the main reservoirs.

On the financial side the systems are able to report a situation fully as encouraging as from the service viewpoint. I cannot emphasize too strongly the fundamentally sound condition of the water and light systems considered simply as a business proposition.

The operation of the department for the year shows a surplus of over $16,000.00, after paying all operating expenses, making an allowance of $17,857.14 to cover depreciation, which is a very liberal amount, and paying interest on all outstanding indebtedness.

One of the most important factors in the financial success of the department is the small investment for each consumer. The investment for each consumer in the electric light system is $47.40, and for each consumer in the water system is $100.00. Each of these figures is fully fifty per cent lower than is usual for such systems. The importance of keeping down the investment arises from the fact that depreciation and interest on the investment are the largest items in the cost of operating, and an investment as large as is usual in such systems would add $5.00 per year to the water and light bills of each resident within the city, without any added benefit to the department. As this increase could only be met by a heavy advance in rates, the great advantage of low investment charges can be seen.

Another factor having much to do with low rates is the fact that both are operated together, that both are handled from the same office and maintained by the same men. Meter reading, billing, bookkeeping, collecting, superintendence and various other phases of the work are performed by the same men and at the same time for both utilities. I estimate the economy from operating both systems together to be over $600.00 per month, which of course is available for reducing rates, or adding to profits.

The department is well supplied with tools and equipment, and practically all work is done by the department itself, with the consequent elimination of contractors' profits. The only cases where work has been done by contract have been in the erection of buildings, the drilling of wells, and the placing of sidewalks and finished cement work.

In addition to the surplus mentioned above, the department furnishes services to the city in excess of charges made by the department. Street lights are charged to the city at very much less than the value of the service warrants, and no charge whatever is made for fire hydrants, though they are placed at the expense of this department. The department in this way returned what is practically a dividend to the city during the past year of $7,378.94, and since the system was started of $10,010.69.

The detail of this is shown below. In preparing this table I have placed a value on street light service lower than is charged for similar service elsewhere. Hydrants placed at the expense of the General Fund of the city, I have charged at fifty cents each per month, and those placed at the expense of this department at $1.50 each per month.

On the other hand I have shown the value of the services performed by the city for this dpartment.

A portion of the legislative expense of the city can properly be charged to this department. A study of the amount of time devoted in the clerk's, treasurer's and other offices, and by the board of trustees to matters relating to public service affairs, indicates that about twenty-five per cent of the expense of these offices is rightly charged to this department.

Most of the quarters occupied by the department have been constructed out of its funds, but the department is occupying one room in the original part of the city hall and other quarters acquired by the General Fund and a charge should be made for this.

Through its ownership by the city, the department pays no taxes and the amount of these should be credited to the city.

After making all of these deductions, this department is still furnishing $7,378.94 worth of services per annum to the city for which no return is received.

Value of Services Rendered to Public Service Department by City of Glendale Since Taking Over Systems

Proportionate cost of executive offices	$ 6,875.00
Rent	1,480.00
Taxes	12,111.98
Preliminary advances by city (before taking over systems)	6,577.16
Amount paid by city for street lights	29,021.45
Total	$56,065.59

Value of Services Rendered to City of Glendale by Public Service Department Since Taking Over Systems

Fire Hydrants	$ 2,352.00
Street light service	63,724.28
Total	$66,076.28

All profits are made from the sale of water and electricity. The department has made no charges for extensions or mains anywhere within the city, and has never charged for meters or services or for fire hydrants, either for installation or maintenance. All operating expenses, and all bond interest and redemption are paid from the operating revenue of the systems.

A very noticeable feature of the expense account is the low operating payroll compared to the volume of business done and the small maintenance cost of the electric light system. Almost no repairs have been needed or will be needed for some years. In three or four years it will be necessary to begin to replace some of the poles set when the city first took over the system.

All accounts are kept in accordance with the classification of the State Railroad Commission.

The rates charged by this department are the lowest of any city in the State which does not levy taxes for the payment of interest and bonds on water or electric systems.

Rates for water within the corporate limits are:

$1.00 for the first 1000 cubic feet used per month.

$.03 for each 100 cubic feet thereafter.

$1.00 monthly minimum.

For light:

7 cents per kilowatt hour for the first 20 kilowatt hours used per month.

5 cents per kilowatt hour for the next 14 kilowatt hours.

3 cents per kilowatt hour thereafter.

50 cents monthly minimum.

This is a steady lowering of rates since the acquisition of the systems, and is accompanied by a corresponding growth in the use both of water and electricity. The water rate permits the use of water for irrigating purposes from domestic services and is already showing itself in the noticeable increase in the planting of vacant property. I hope to be able to do more to encourage and to make profitable the planting of vacant spaces in the future. In the period of something over a year since taking over the water system the percentage of consumers getting good water service has increased until all but about two per cent of consumers who live close to the elevation of the reservoirs are getting first class service. The installation of the reservoir at the 720 foot level will permit all of our consumers to receive thoroughly good service.

The water and light systems are a constantly growing asset to the City of Glendale, and the investment in them is amply justified, whether looked at from the standpoint of lowered rates, or of improved service, or because of the profits they have made. They have cost the taxpayers of Glendale nothing but the labor of voting for them, and are paying their purchase price out of their income, notwithstanding repeatedly lowered rates and improved service.

The Helper of Women

—In a very real and effective sense Electricity offers its aid to lift the burden of household tasks. Whether the mistress of the house does her own work or hires it done, whether in the humble home or in the stately mansion, there is much day-in-and-day-out drudgery about housework, and it usually falls to the lot of women to do this work. Women are demanding a larger responsibility in the affairs of nations, and they are getting it. But in the meantime the home must be kept up, of course. It is fortunate that electrical energy, now so cheap, can be used for so many purposes in household service.

—Take wash-day, for instance. The Electric washer and wringer and the Electric flatiron or ironing-machine have robbed it of its terrors. The washer and wringer does away with almost all the hard muscular labor, while the Electric flatiron saves time and strength. The Electric irons are convenient, also, to use in odd times and places, as in the pressing operations of home dressmaking, saving the necessity of going to kitchen or laundry for a hot iron. They are very popular, probably 3000 or more being in use in the homes and laundries of Glendale.

—The Electric vacuum cleaner is another real burden-lifter. How easy to operate; how clean, refreshing and sanitary the result! Still another strength-saver is the sewing-machine motor, enabling the operator to give her whole attention to the sewing itself.

—Consider also the great comfort and convenience of the varied heating and cooking utensils—the Electric toaster for the breakfast table or the invalid's chamber; the Electric percolator, producing the coffee that made home famous; the Electric chafing dish, so convenient for card-party luncheons; the Electric grill, egg-boiler, cereal cooker, teakettle, oven, stove, and the like—a long list of cleanly, inviting appliances. Nor should one forget Electric curling-iron heaters, hair dryers, vibrators, and other toilet accessories.

—For their own benefit, or for the well-being of their servants, or for both, all the housewives of Glendale should be familiar with the multifarious uses of Electricity in the home. Here is strength to lean upon, comfort to soothe the nerves, and daintiness for delight. And such good form for gifts! Many appliances not mentioned here are to be seen in our display.

"DO IT ELECTRICALLY"

PICTURES AS INDIVIDUALS

In picture hanging, as in all artistic composition, the general must precede the particular. You must first have a comprehensive idea of your pictures and the groups into which they fall by reason of size, color and subject, before you can plan their hanging. Nor must you hang any one picture on the wall until you have mentally or experimentally hung them all.

If you have a long, narrow picture and a short, broad one that seem to belong together, place the long picture two or three inches beneath the other. This will give the impression conveyed by a column and its capital, of mass supported by slender strength. In a long, narrow wall space such an arrangement is specially happy. In general, hang small pictures below the larger.

Pictures should usually be on or slightly above the leve' of the eye. Certain pictures, however, can be elevated without detriment to their effectiveness. The "Sistine Madonna," for example, poised as it were in the heavens, loses nothing by being raised well above other pictures.

Your pictures are individuals. Each has been lovingly wrought with some one end in view. Put yourself in the place of the artist. Respect his aim, do justice to his achievement. If you succeed in this your pictures, like intelligent, well mannered guests, will become an integral part of your household, each contributing its beauty, strength or tenderness to the whole.

AUTHORSHIP

In vain, O Author, you suppose you are the author of your productions. Eternally their truths have been around us, and you are only the instrument by which they passed into our understanding.—Alexei Tolstoi.

WOMEN ON BOARD OF TRADE

The women of Ridgewood, in the Borough of Queens, a part of Greater New York, are to be represented on the local Board of Trade. An auxiliary of the present civic association will be formed, and women property owners will be sought as officers and members, with the idea of having committees of women appear before the borough and city officials at public hearings on local improvements.

FINEST WORDS UNIMPOSING

The finest language, I believe, is chiefly made up of unimposing words, such as "light," "sound," "stars," "music,"—words really not worth looking at, or hearing in themselves, any more than "chips" or "sawdust": it is only that they happen to be the signs of something great and beautiful.—George Eliot.

Sunday Services at the Churches

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Two fine services are planned for Sunday. In the morning Rev. Hendry of Los Angeles will speak. Rev. Hendry has been in Glendale before and has always highly pleased his audiences. He will be sure to bring a fine message Sunday morning.

Sunday evening the service will be under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary society. Dr. George F. Kenngott, well known to the people of Glendale, will speak of the Indians of California. Dr. Kenngott has been a personal worker among the Indians and has made an exhaustive study of them. In 1911 he was appointed a special committee to study the conditions of the Indians in the United States and later made a special study of the California Indians.

The Sunday School meets at 9:45. This is a live Sunday School with something new every Sunday. The Junior A Endeavor society meets at 6:15 and Intermediate C. E. at 6:45. These are both splendid services for the young people. The Junior B meets Tuesday at 3:15 at the church.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

First Church of Christ, Scientist, holds services in their church edifice, corner Second and Maryland avenue, Sunday morning at 11. Subject Sunday, July 30, "Love."

THEOSOPHICAL REGENERATION

The great and peaceful ones live regenerating the world like the coming of spring, and after having themselves crossed the ocean of embodied existence, help those who try to do the same thing, without personal motives.

This desire is spontaneous, since the natural tendency of great souls is to remove the suffering of others, just as the ambrosia-rayed (moon) of itself cools the earth heated by the harsh rays of the sun.

Actions are for the purification of the heart, not for the attainment of real substance. The substance can be attained by right discrimination, but not by any amount of karma.—Viveka-Chudamani, of Sankaracharya.

Bacon—"The giraffe is said to be the only animal in nature that is entirely dumb, not being able to express itself by any sound."

Egbert—"It's just as well, for if it could speak, it would talk over everybody's head."—Yongers Statesman.
